

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court 2023 – 2024 Strategic Plan

October 31, 2023

INTRODUCTION:

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court, through the visionary leadership from the Judicial Commission, held a strategic planning meeting for the Tribal Court, stakeholders, members of the Judicial Commission and elected Business Committee members, on February 22-24, 2023, in Great Falls, Montana and completed creating objectives and activities for Goal# 4 Organizational Management with Court staff and HTW partners on Sept 15th & Oct 13, 2023. The Tribal Court had a court assessment conducted in November 2019, and most recently in June 2022. The first assessment identified many recommendations pre-pandemic and focused on issues or concerns that were present at that time. The Tribal Court has changed since the first court assessment based on many lessons learned during the Covid-19 pandemic. These lessons, both positive and negative, have made the court stronger and better prepared for the future. The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court with proper planning can be better prepared to support the court on its journey of continual innovation and improvement. The Court Assessment Report(s) contain a Summary of Recommendations and Strategic Planning at the end of each summary. This document is an extension of same, adding in short- and long-term goals that were identified at the strategic planning session. The Strategic Planning meeting was conducted free of charge to the Tribal Court along with the updated Recommendations and Strategic Planning chart that was previously provided in the Court.

- Review shortcomings and seek out solutions
- Specific strategies for each departmental goal
- Establish good direction – definitive road map to gauge how we get there

The strategic planning process was facilitated through a model that would provide for an effective strategic planning process and engage the planning group in four stages of strategic planning:

- Prepare

- Implement
- Revise

Stand on a Strong Cultural Foundation

The CCTC is devoted to the support of tribal community members’ justice system through education, information, sharing and advocacy. The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court will strive to provide traditional means of resolving disputes in all facets of the justice system. In a concerted effort to strengthen the court’s ability to evolve its shift toward culturally relevant and appropriate justice, the CCTC developed a Mission statement to reflect the enhancement of the tribal justice system.

MISSION:

To preserve the sovereignty of the CCT guided by our values, culture, and traditions, providing dispute resolution resulting in equality justice for all.

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court recognizes that to be successful in the accomplishment of the mission an integral value and belief system is needed. The CCTC strategic planning sessions spurred discussion and the result is the development of Guiding Principles.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES:

- The CCTC is a branch of government and operates in the spirit of self-governance, pursuant to the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws;
- The CCTC ensures equality, fairness and respect for everyone who utilizes the system;
- The CCTC will recognize and respect culture and traditions within our community;
- The CCTC shall adhere to strict ethical standards; and
- The CCTC exercises cooperation with other jurisdictions.

The foundation of organizational culture lies with the values and beliefs that reflect the way in which the organization conducts carrying out its mission. The CCTC defined these principles to define and reinforce the values and beliefs of the organization for the long-term success of the Tribal Court.

LONG-TERM GOALS:

The purpose of long-term goals is to accomplish the Mission. Long term goals identified through the strategic planning process are as followed:

- ❖ To become the most competent Tribal Court in Montana;
 - ❖ To become a knowledgeable court that facilitates activities and processes that promote a holistically healthy community, and;
 - ❖ To honor, preserve and maintain our culture.

Assessing Our Environment

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court planning group recognized that there are external and internal factors that may affect the successful implementation of this strategic plan thus the planning group identified these factors through assessment of CCTC's environment.

Trends:

Trends were identified by the planning group and are as follows:

- ✘ Alcohol and Drug Abuse = Crime
- ✘ Increase in DUI, abuse of prescription drugs, PI (Public Intoxication) and MIP's (Minor in Possession) charges
- ✘ Unreported crimes against children
- ✘ Federal agencies more receptive to individual Tribal needs
- ✘ Uncertainty of future funding expectations for the Courts
- ✘ Lagging networking and partnerships in local community
- ✘ Utilization of all local resources available for alternative treatment of alcohol and drug offenders
- ✘ Increase in effective Models of Mental Health programs in the court system
- ✘ Championing Court Mandated Reconciliation trends in Montana for possible alternatives
- ✘ Increased disintegration of family structures

SWOT:

The SWOT model was used to identify the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats of the Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts. This analysis is self-reported through group discussion and facilitated to assist in developing goals, objectives, and action plans. Defined below are the results of this discussion process. Tribal Court staff and HTW partners updated the SWOT on October 13, 2023.

2022 TRIBAL COURT ASSESSMENT

In 2022, a Tribal Court Assessment was conducted and provides an external perspective that assists in the development of objectives and actions. CCTC correlated the findings to specific goals with objectives and translated recommendations into actions. (See attached report)

Developing a Shared Vision

A Shared Vision was developed through a facilitation process. The planning group defined specific characteristics of a Vision Statement:

- Specific- Realistic
- Outcome based NOT Activity based
- Focused on external as well as internal impacts
- Challenging, but not “Pie in the Sky”
- Consistent with Guiding Principles
- Completed within a reasonable timeframe

The 2023 Vision of the Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts:

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Court’s vision is to provide fair and equitable justice for all with respect to tradition and culture as a full-functioning independent Judicial branch of government in collaboration with our community; and, to incorporate Chief Rocky Boy’s vision to “Love one another and take care of each other.”

The Vision is supported through the long-term goals and objectives outlined in the Strategic Work Plan. This Vision Statement describes where the Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts will be after implementation of the strategic plan.

Major Strategic Directions

Five strategic directions have been identified through this strategic planning process. These will guide the actions to be taken to achieve the “Vision of Success for 2019”. Each major strategic direction represents a specific category around which goals, objectives, outcome measures, and actions will be developed.

The five strategic directions are:

I. ACCESSIBLE, FAIR, QUALITY JUSTICE AND PUBLIC SERVICE

All Tribal clients will have access to due process, and be treated in a fair and just manner, regardless of race, culture, age gender, disability, and religious preference.

II. INDEPENDENCE AND ACCOUNTABILITY

The judiciary shall be an independent branch of government that seeks, uses and accounts for Tribal/Federal/State and private sector funding necessary for its support. The independence of judicial decision-making shall be protected.

III. TRADITIONAL CULTURE

The Tribal Court recognizes the importance and will provide culture/community/family values and beliefs into the Tribal Court System.

IV. ORGANIZATIONAL MANAGEMENT

Management of operations shall be administered utilizing best practices, innovative ideas, competent judges, judicial officers, and staff within appropriate facilities.

V. EDUCATION

The effectiveness of judges and other judicial branch staff shall be enhanced through continuing education and training.

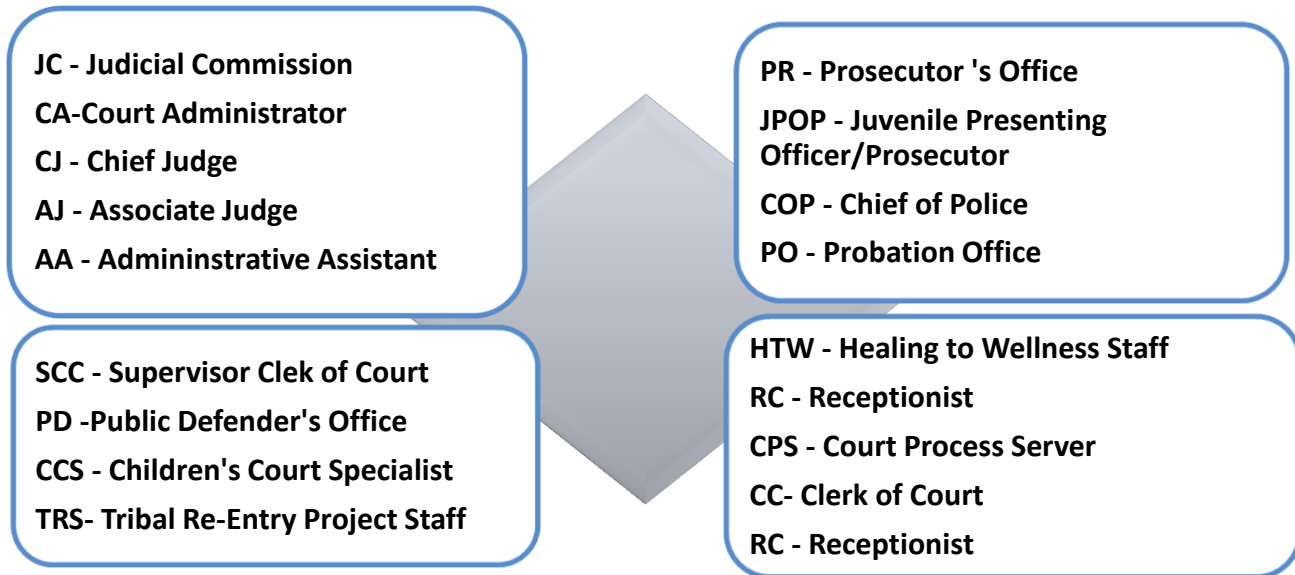

Strategic Work Plan

The strategic work plan is organized through a Balanced Scorecard method that is inclusive of assigning responsibility to internal staff for accomplishing actions in a pre-determined timeline utilizing identified resources for the successful implementation of the objective. Measured outcomes are identified as the evaluation tool for each specific objective.

Key Points in the Work Plan:

Next Steps to Implementation

Too often, strategic plans are written, but never implemented, sitting unused on office shelves. In an effective strategic planning process, a plan is written that is then widely known and both used within the organization and in the broader community. The steps in this process are critical to ensuring that this plan is used to guide work within the CCTC and monitoring of progress.

The implementation stage involves several steps including:

1. Communicating the plan
2. Managing implementation of the plan (Operational Plan)
3. Supervising the actual work, and
4. Monitoring and reporting progress on the plan.

Communicating the Plan

After this plan is finalized and approved, it will to be published and shared with everyone who will implement the plan including the planning group, organizational staff, and other external partners and stakeholders.

Approaches to distributing the plan include:

- Publish hard copies and distribute them to press, Tribal Leaders, Department heads, community leaders, etc.;
- Post the plan on Tribal website;
- Issue a press release to announce the plan;
- Convene stakeholder forums to share the plan;
- Distribute copies to all staff;
- Reconvene the planning group to share and review the final plan.

As this plan is implemented and revised, it will be continually communicated. Just like the CCTC's vision, the components of the plan will be communicated and reinforced throughout the organization and the community.

CCTC will use the following approaches:

- Ensuring that any decision-making process in the organization (policy, budget, etc.) considers the elements of this strategic plan;
- Update progress on the plan in meetings with staff;

- Incorporate components of the plan into both initial and ongoing, in-service training for staff;
- Continually assess progress in accordance with the plan;
- Having the planning group review and revise the plan regularly over time; and
- Continually report on progress on plan to staff.

Manage the plan

The Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts leaders are responsible for implementing and managing the plan. They will assign a manager or supervisor with the authority to assign responsibilities and to ensure actions are completed. Leaders and plan managers will work actively to assure that everyone is aware of their responsibilities under the plan, and to monitor implementation. As the plan often requires changes or actions by stakeholders outside of the organization, plan managers, in conjunction with the planning group, will communicate and coordinate with a whole range of other departments and community-based groups.

Since the planning groups were instrumented in developing the plan, they also have a key role in ongoing management of the plan. Planning groups should convene on a regular basis to maintain focus on the activities and outcomes in the plan. Their roles will include the following:

- Reviewing the implementation of the activities in the plan;
- Monitoring progress on the outcomes and measures in the plan;
- Assisting leadership and the plan manager in carrying out the plan (i.e., identifying additional resources or brainstorming on approaches to overcoming barriers);
- Conducting comprehensive reviews of progress of the plan;
- Assisting in development of quarterly and annual reports on progress; and
- Using data or information from assessments to guide revisions to the plan.

Program Managers and the planning group will consider how to integrate the goals and outcomes of different plans developed by the Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts. Coordinating plans will reduce the workload of implementing and reporting on separate plans, and will increase the effectiveness of the efforts to move towards goals.

Supervise the plan

Managers at all levels will supervise the work being done on the plan.

This happens:

- As the plan is “dropped down” so that staff members in charge of implementation are aware of their responsibilities and carry out their assigned roles;
- As the plan is communicated to all staff so that they are aware of the Chippewa Cree Tribal Court’s vision, goals or outcomes, strategies and activities, and their role in the plan;
- As more specific work plans are developed on programmatic levels to implement the strategies or action steps in a broad organizational plan; and
- As data on progress of the plan is reviewed and used at a practice level by managers, supervisors and staff.

Monitor and Report Progress

In implementing this plan, those involved will consider available management systems that can be set up to monitor progress. As the plan is implemented, managers will develop these systems to track report on progress.

An operational plan will assist CCTC with Action Work Plans. The Operational Plan is the third part this completed Strategic Plan. It will define how CCTC will operate in practice to implement actions plans – what are the capacity needs, how CCTC will engage resources, how CCTC will deal with risks, and how CCTC will ensure sustainability of the plan’s achievements.

An Operational Plan does not normally exist as one single standalone plan; rather the key components are integrated with the other parts of this overall Strategic Plan.

The key components of the complete Operation Plan will include analysis or discussions of:

- Human and Other Capacity Requirements:
 - The human capacity and skills required to implement this plan and the CCTC’s current and potential sources of these resources;
 - Other capacity needs required to implement your plan (i.e., internal systems, management structures, engaged partners and a supportive legal framework).
- Financial Requirements:
 - The funding required implementing the plan, the current and potential sources of these funds, and the most critical funding gaps.
- Risk Assessment and Mitigation Strategy:
 - What risks exists and how can they be addresses.

- Estimate of Plan Lifespan, Sustainability, and Exit Strategy:
 - How long will the plan be implemented?
 - When and how will you exit the plan?
 - How will CCTC ensure sustainability of the plan's achievements?

The CCTC strategic plan may only be considered complete when these components have been defined for each goal and objective. As the plan moves into implementation, several of these components are defined in more detail and tested in reality. Thus, the Operational Plan will provide a critical bridge between the Action and Monitoring Steps in Strategic Planning.

The Operational Plan will ensure that CCTC can successfully implement Strategic Work Plans by getting the organization to:

- ▶ Prepare CCTC to obtain funds, being clear on how CCTC will retain these funds;
- ▶ Use resources efficiently, to help allocate scarce resources to the most critical gaps and needs;
- ▶ Reduce risks where possible, and prepare contingency plans where necessary;
- ▶ Think about the long-term future of the plan, including how CCTC will ensure sustainability of the plan's targets and impacts.

Evaluation of the Plan

In the revision stage of the planning process, CCTC will in effect start the cycle over again by conducting an assessment of the organizational performance of the plan over the prior year and making needed revisions and updates to the plan.

Review Progress

In the implementation stage, CCTC will to develop reports and use them on a regular basis – daily, weekly or monthly, to monitor progress on the plan. In addition, a comprehensive review of the progress will happen on an ongoing basis, probably quarterly depending on the reporting requirements in the Strategic Work Plan.

The ongoing monitoring and comprehensive review of progress will assess both progress toward goals and outcomes, and the progress being made on implementing the plan activities.

Review Progress

In the reviewing progress on the plan, CCTC will continually repeat the strategic planning process. On an ongoing basis CCTC will conduct assessments of its performance by gathering and analyzing information on the organization's performance. The planning group will be reconvened so that planning groups can review CCTC's performance and reassess goals, outcomes, strategies and action steps in the plan.

The staff and planning group involved in the planning process will consider what changes should be made to the plan. Revisions will be made to the plan, and the draft revised plan will be circulated for comment and finalized.

The revised plan will be communicated widely, and responsibilities and work plan will to be revised. The revised plan will be monitored and then revised again in this ongoing process.

To the extent that the plan is updated, it will stay current and meaningful to the organization.

Conclusion

The benefits of strategic planning will be experienced by CCTC's ability to conduct the steps under each of the four stages:

- ✚ Guided by a vision, develop clear goals, outcomes, strategies and measures and communicate the plan, strategic planning can build consensus – both within the organization and with stakeholders – on a clear direction for CCTC that provides direction and guides choices;
- ✚ As CCTC implements strategies to achieve outcomes, monitors the effectiveness of the strategies and revises them, the strategic planning process enables CCTC to continually move closer to its goals;
- ✚ The continual cycle of planning – including regular reassessment of needs and strategies – helps CCTC adapt to change, correct mistakes, and continually allocate resources to areas of most need;
- ✚ A strategic planning process will help CCTC be more effective and efficient as strategies are developed to build on strengths, and efforts toward goals are coordinated across programs and systems.

As CCTC staff and stakeholders engaged in developing, implementing and revising the strategic plan, the plan becomes a living document that is known and used within the organization and the community. A strong strategic planning process is a powerful tool for systemic change within the Chippewa Cree Tribal Courts, focused on improving outcomes for the community of the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation.
